Dear Dr. (10)(2e)

I thought I would share with you some updates regarding the infectious disease session of next year's Internal Medicine conference. The session will cover all infectious diseases, with an emphasis on COVID-19, emerging infectious diseases, and antibiotic resistance.

There are still a couple speaker slots available, and we have set aside some travel funds and extra hotel nights for speakers which plan to attend in person (there is also an online version of the conference). More details and a preliminary agenda are accessible via the link in my signature below.

May we discuss how your work could fit into the session?

Sincerely,

(10)(2e)
