We mogen met onze Engelse collega's meekijken in de code! Wie moet ik er bij betrekken?

Met vriendelijke groet, warm regards

Thanks `5.1.2e` (moving `5.1.2e` > BCC)

Hello `5.1.2e` !

We'd be delighted to help.

1. At a technical level, we have been placing all of our code in GitHub under the MIT licence. If any of your team would like to access our code, please ask them to send their GitHub IDs to `5.1.2e` (cc'ed) and please ask them to ensure they have 2-factor authentication switched on.
2. At a strategic level, my colleague `5.1.2e` (cc'ed) will be in touch and will be able to share with you a shared drive with a range of additional resources on it.

With best wishes,

`5.1.2e`

Lovely to hear from you!

My fab colleague 5.1.2e is leading this work.
I've copied him in.

Stay safe,
With best wishes

Hi 5.1.2e

I hope you and your family are well. I'm sorry to bother you at this time, as we are all busy managing this crisis. I'm part of the Ministry of Health taskforce that is responsible for the development and deployment of the national covid19 apps as part of our strategy to ease out of the current 'intelligent lockdown' measures. I've been following your work on these apps from a distance, with the very interesting research done by Oxford University and the news on March 31 that you are using that research to develop a contact tracing app. (I'm assuming it hasn't been released yet, right?) We are very eager to learn from you, about the way you embed these apps/services in your epidemiological strategy, in how you select the right apps (or develop one in-house), and what technology you will be using (and the reasons for that: Bluetooth, GPS data, etc.

I'd love to get in touch with people in your organization working on this, and any insight you can provide is greatly appreciated.

Warm regards and stay well,
