

I would like to introduce you to my good friend Salim Mahmood from South Africa. Salim is a highly ethical businessman who is currently helping African governments with purchasing medical protective gear, medicines and respirators in order to fight this pandemic.

He told me that South Africa has more than enough propofol and he can send this medicine to the Netherlands. You can contact him directly to hear if this is indeed the medicine we need and to arrange the logistics. He is a master in logistics and will find a way to get it to us quickly, despite these challenging times.

You can call Salim on:
