Onderwerp: nieuw request for service EUHealthSupport over post-COVID surveillance

Summary:

- Title: Lessons Learnt from COVID 19 surveillance and other epidemics- Study to support a real-time integrated surveillance system at EU level, assist and support Member States in the development of interoperable, reliable and modern national surveillance systems, driven by digital transformation
- Duration and budget: 6 months, budget 197.160 EUR
- Budget components: all within Work Package 2 led by Nivel (1 discussion paper, 1 draft and 1 final scientific report, 1 survey among the expert group, 2 webinars).
- Objective is to gather the experiences from implementing surveillance at national and European level during the response to the COVID-19 crisis and earlier public health emergencies and to define the parameters for the creation of integrated digital surveillance systems, collecting data real-time and using artificial intelligence, where appropriate.
- Activities:
 - Scoping review on the scientific evidence including existing experiences, benefits, gaps and needs with regard to the use of integrated, digitalised and real-time surveillance systems in the EU MS and EEA countries.

- First consultation of the experts groups based on the literature/scoping review: The national competent bodies for surveillance of communicable diseases managed by ECDC and the members of the Health Security Committee (HSC), EWRS working group members), during the structured webinars and an online survey questionnaire.
- Background paper pooling the findings to inform the JA:
 - The scientific literature/scoping review, the webinars and survey reports main findings will be used for the preparation of a background paper presenting current national experiences on the feasibility, cost and public health impact of integrating different digital data sources for surveillance purposes during the response to the COVID pandemic and other crisis situations.
 - The background paper should also list the difficulties encountered in data exchange and the solutions found to address surveillance system insufficiencies in gathering all the information required to ensure continuous, real-time monitoring of the situation at national and regional level.
 - This background paper will be used to identify the requirements or parameters for developing a future integrated, electronic data-based, real-time surveillance system in Europe that uses artificial intelligence, where appropriate.
- Final consultation of the expert groups: The final draft background document will be presented during the webinars for the subsequent consultation and approval by the two expert groups.
- As a final deliverable, the final background paper describing best practices based on national experiences will help to define the parameters and requirements for the establishment of routine integrated surveillance at national level, and will inform the design and implementation of the integrated surveillance Joint Action. The background paper should have a specific section on enhanced real time surveillance for public health emergencies response.
