Dear Ms. [redacted]

I work with the European Super League and am following up on the recent meeting between the ministry and them to share attached remarks the President of Real Madrid, Florentino Pérez, made today on the future of football in Europe and the Super League.

Key points include:

- The Super League is about financial sustainability, transparency, good corporate governance and solidarity. The Super League is respect for national competitions, respect for fans and, above all, respect and passion for football.
- The competition format of the Super League will continually be open for debate, because it must always be adapted to the demands of football's global fan base over time. Whatever the format, it must be able to restore interest in football for the sake of all fans and especially the younger ones, to ensure the future of the sport which today is in danger.
- It is the clubs and not UEFA, who assume all of the risks in football with budgets often in the hundreds of millions of euros. This is a heavy responsibility. In truth, UEFA is in permanent and insurmountable conflict as it is both the regulator and the sole organizer of European competitions, while at the same time retaining the right to block any other competitor from entering the market. This situation would not be permissible in any sector or industry under European Union law.

Would you be so kind as to share these remarks with Ms. [redacted] We remain at your disposal for any additional information.

Kind regards,

Dear Ms. [REDACTED]

Thank you very much for your response.

As you may know, there is an ongoing case at the European Court of Justice for which Member States will be asked to submit observations by 18th October. If at all possible, we would be grateful if we could please find a time to discuss with Ms. [REDACTED] before that date. If that is not possible, we would be available to have the video call at 11am CET on 5th November.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED]

Dear Mr. Blokhuis,

I am writing to you on behalf of the European Super League (ESL).

As the launch of the project has raised quite some public interest and concern in spring, I would like to request a short meeting or video call to explain the underlying reasoning and motivation for a self-governed, transparent, and truly European league, as well as its benefits to European football, its clubs small and big, its fans and the European economy.

We would also like to use this opportunity to listen to concerns around the league and explain the changes we are working on, in particular, to ensure that the league is open and based on sporting merit through a credible relegation system.

I would therefore very much appreciate the opportunity to exchange views with you on this important topic and would value and appreciate your input.

Please do let me know if some time slots are particularly convenient on your side.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,
