Dear 5.1.2e

As promised;

When reporting adverse reactions, we generally choose to include any clinic that our system may associate with a given donor. This might in rare cases result in the inclusion of information that, upon closer inspection, does not reflect actual donor movement or treatment.

This specific matter concerns historic order data from more than 15 years ago, which is why I have retrieved the original orders placed at the time to ensure we provide as comprehensive a dataset as possible.

Here we identified a private customer who placed an order for the donor in question without specifying a receiving clinic. Some months later, the same customer placed an order for a different donor and, on that occasion, listed a clinic in the Netherlands. Due to the overlap in customer identity and timeframe, our system mistakenly associated the earlier order with the Dutch clinic.

We can therefore now confirm that the donor in question was not shipped to any clinics in the Netherlands, and no treatments have taken place with this donor at any Dutch clinic. The inclusion of the Dutch clinic on the list shared with authorities was therefore the result of a data mis-association, not an actual shipment to or treatment at a Dutch clinic.

For transparency, we note that two Dutch residents have been treated with the donor at two separate clinics in Belgium. Both Belgian clinics were notified and were included on the clinic list submitted to authorities in 2023 as part of the rapid alert.

I hope this explanation provides the necessary clarity. Please do not hesitate to contact us should you require anything further.

Dear 5.1.2e

Just talked to you on the phone.

We need to be sure to which clinic in The Netherlands Donor 5.1.2e was send to (including date of shipment(s)).

We need to contact this Dutch clinic(s) asap to check if there were pregnancies/children from this donor

The only information we got after a Rapid Alert in November 20203 was the donorsemen was send to Maastricht University Medical Centre.

Thanks for your help

Kind regards

Dear 5.1.2e

Just for completeness I would like to add that all clinics who had received sperm from this donor, were immediately notified when the donor was permanently blocked. This happened in September of 2023. Everything was reported to the Danish Patient Safety Authority who provided a Rapid Alert entry on the donor.

The Danish Patient Safety Authority is in possession of all relevant information regarding the Adverse case investigation.

Dear 5.1.2e

I can confirm the information you received from 5.1.2e with a few additions.

- We do not know that the donor has been used for treatment in the Netherlands, only that his sperm was shipped to a Dutch clinic, and no pregnancies were reported.
- We know that the 2 children living in the Netherlands (or rather where the mother lived in the Netherlands at the time of treatment) were reported by a Belgian clinic.
- The donors ESB ID is 5.1.2e

We will immediately contact you if any new information regarding the Netherlands comes up. We believe that is unlikely as these events are all back from 2005-2010

You don't often get email from 5.1.2e @igj.nl. Learn why this is important

Dear 5.1.2e

I just received a phone call from 5.1.2e talked to you about the donor with 5.1.1d

As I understand up till now, no children are born in The Netherlands from this donor. One clinic used the donor semen, but there were no children born. And there are two children living in The Netherlands, but they were treated outside The Netherlands.

One question: Is there a donor ID number you can provide me. We can check this ID in our notification system as well (CDKB, formerly SDKB)

If you have more additional information about Holland, please can you contact me (asap)?

Thanks for your help and assistance!
